During NASCAR's Speedweeks, one of auto racing's best-known names got involved in disaster recovery. Longtime race car driver Dale Earnhardt, Jr., a NASCAR ambassador and co-owner of JR Motorsports, got together with Team Rubicon, an organization that uses the skills and experiences of military veterans and first responders, to serve communities impacted by disasters.

"Natural disasters have hit close to home for me," said Earnhardt, a North Carolina native, noting Hurricane Florence's impact on the Carolinas. "Team Rubicon was there to support and rebuild those affected areas, and I'm proud to team with Mountain Dew to support its mission," said Earnhardt.

To kick off the ongoing partnership, Mountain Dew, which already has a partnership in place with Earnhardt and other top race car drivers, announced a $1 million donation to fuel Team Rubicon's efforts and ongoing programs. Team Rubicon offers clean up support to residents affected by weather events across the country and throughout the year. Earnhardt points out that Team Rubicon, however, is a little different than other non-profits.

"Team Rubicon is an organization that provides aid to people impacted by a disaster. The majority of people who make up Team Rubicon, including the boots on the ground, are USA veterans and first responders," Earnhardt told Forbes. "I think that's unique and important, and I can't wait to help out and get my hands dirty."

The Monday after The Clash at Daytona preseasong race, on February 18, 2019, Earnhardt joined Team Rubicon and Mountain Dew staffers, as well as other volunteers, to assist residents in cleaning up property in Panama City, Florida, affected by the Hurricane Michael.

"We're honored and humbled by this major commitment from Mountain Dew in support of our mission," said Jake Wood, Co-Founder and CEO of Team Rubicon. "Dew's contribution will enable us to train more volunteers in critical skills, respond to more disasters around the world, and help more people on their worst day. Like Team Rubicon, we know Dew Nation has a bias for action and we're excited to see how they'll step up to match DEW's $1 million commitment to our mission."
